Sudden Death of the King of England Does Not Affect Markets.

TONE MAINTAINED

MONEY SITUATION IN THE EAST IMPROVING.

New York May 7 .- The brief Saturday sessions of the stock exchanges on the continent of Europe and in New York, further curtailed in the latter case by the early adjournment, were long enough to give opportunity for a demonstration of financial confidence in the situation left as the result of the sudden death of the king of England. No exchanges were open in Great Britain, where, of course, the most direct effects of the event would be felt, but it is not to be supposed that other financial markets would be exempt from the effect to be looked for in the home markets. The very suddenness of the event left it without the power of sentimental influence of a coming portend. The opportunity to be offered by the two-day interval for preparation before the resumption of next week's business, evidently had its part in absorbing the shock.

Allowance must be made for the part played by supporting orders by the stronger financial interests in the day's advance in New York prices. With this allowance made, the market gave clear evidence that no severe pressure was encountered to oppose the support. The longer view of the changes involved will be awaited, nevertheless, with close attention, including the immediate effect on the extended rub-ber speculation in London. The New York market is most interested in the effect which will follow upon the newly awakened foreign demand for new American securities, which have been the feature of the past week. It is be-lieved that transactions already have been closed for important operations. Where negotiations are still pending it is admitted that may be changed, if only in the exacting of better terms for buyers of securities.

No attention was paid to general conditions, although the American Railway association reported a further increase in surplus freight cars, to 96.-319, the largest showing of idle equipment since September 1 of last year. . The bank statement explained the easing tone of the money market by the substantial recuperation which has been effected in the condition of the
